

The Antidote

Yields: 1 Cocktail

Total Time: 5 Minutes

Whenever there's a zombie outbreak, everyone starts scrambling for the cure, so we're going to actually start our undead rager with our signature cocktail, the antidote. Tasty and refreshing, it also has to look the part - like it was cooked up in some mad scientist's laboratory, and we infuse a little madness into the drink by using Absinthe as the potent main ingredient. The concoction, however, turns those mythical green fairies into green zombies for all the ghouls and gals for your party. We use some green sports drink for color and for added hydration, and some natural fruit juices to give you a great taste and a drink that can help make your night a little more interesting, if you feel our drift.

Ingredients for 1 Cocktail (if batching for 12-15 people, use 750 ml Absinthe, 750 ml limeade, 750 ml yellow green sports drink, 4 oz of green glory juice)

- 2 oz Absinthe
- 2 oz limeade
- 2 oz yellow green Gatorade
- Splash of green glory juice (kale vegetable juice)
- Beaker or laboratory bottle for serving
- LED light or glowstick for garnish
- Dry ice for garnish

Directions

- Add all ingredients into a shaker with ice
- Agitate and shake to combine
- Pour into beaker
- Attach and turn on light on the bottom
- Add in dry ice (be very careful, this can burn your skin)
- Raise the glass and raise the dead!
