

Aperitif Spritz Pops

Yields: 6 Pops

Total Time: 10 Minutes (plus resting/freezing time of 3 hours)

When you have kids at a party, you need to have some treats, and a lil' sumpin' sumpin' to help you keep your sanity. Don't worry, we got you covered. When the sun is shinin' and the kids are running around, what you need is a popsicle, especially when you've got a little booze in it, too. We also make a kids' version using blue sports drink to make sure we don't have any kids getting liquored up. We got the right mix of alcohol (low enough that it will still freeze) and the refreshing taste and feel of an Aperol Spritz, which this basically is, except frozen, baby. So fire up the grill, blow up the bounce house, and just chill. This cocktail is just a vibe by itself. (We adapted this recipe from Food and Wine magazine)

Ingredients for the Boozie Pops

- ¾ C Prosecco
- ½ C Aperol
- ¼ C Club soda
- ¼ C Orange juice
- 6 Ice-pop sticks
- Popsicle mold

Directions for the Boozie Pops

- In a large mixing bowl, whisk up all the liquid ingredients
- Pour the mix into the mold
- Throw the lids on, and insert the ice-pop sticks

Ingredients for the Kids' Version

- 24 oz of Blue Powerade
- 6 Ice-pop sticks
- Popsicle mold

Directions for the Kid's Version

- Add in the Powerade to the popsicle molds
- Insert sticks
- Freeze 'em